

Summer 2021 Study Abroad Information

College of Education

Are you interested in studying abroad in the Summer 2021? There are many options to consider! Please read this document, talk to your academic advisor, and enroll in the Virtual Study Abroad Fair. All study abroad experiences are subject to change given circumstances beyond control.

Option 1: Take the Race, Equity, & Education course in the Dominican Republic

During the study abroad experience students will learn about the history of the Dominican Republic and consider how that history has shaped public policies (especially those connected to education), laws, and personal biases related to race and privilege. Students will also be asked to complicate their notions of race by considering race as a fluid social construct and perceptions of race as influenced by place and time. Connected to this line of inquiry, students will consider how Western and U.S. normalization of whiteness has influenced historical and contemporary perceptions of race in the Dominican Republic.

This study abroad course fulfills the requirement for ED 398 or ED 404.

Option 2: Take a Butler short-term, faculty-led course in another discipline

Many of Butler's short-term, faculty-led study abroad courses welcome students from all colleges. Some study abroad courses even fulfill university core requirements such as Natural World and Text and Ideas! Click here to review the options.

Option 3: Study abroad with a Third-party Provider

Do you want to study abroad for longer than a couple weeks? Butler works with third-party providers and there are programs related to the field of education and youth and community development! IFSA, SLU-Madrid, SIT, and API are on Butler's List of Approved Programs. In addition to these programs, the other providers listed will be supported by Butler and will offer a transcript upon completion of a student's program. Please note that program availability and course offerings are subject to change.

Summer study abroad policies and the secondary application can be found here: 3rd Party Provider Summer Program. Contact the Butler's Center for Global Education with questions!
