CAT is Relocating for the Summer

The Center for Academic Technology will temporarily be located in the Atherton Computer Lab 011 (adjacent to C-Club) beginning Thursday, May 4, coinciding with the Irwin Library closure through Tuesday, July 4. CAT will maintain everyday services, including summer course support, the Lending Library, consultation requests, and Information Commons services.

zoom is here! Bye bye, Adobe Connect!

The Center for Academic Technology, Information Technology, and Academic Program Development and Innovation are pleased to share that Zoom is now ready for use by all faculty, staff, and students on campus! Zoom is a web based communication technology that unifies video conferencing, online meetings, group messaging, and a software-defined conference room solution into one easy-to-use platform.

Access zoom.butler.edu using your Butler username and password to start using Zoom. You can learn more about Zoom and Adobe Connect's retirement on the CAT website and using the Zoom libguide. Watch for an announcement of our next hands-on Zoom training session coming soon.

Upcoming Events

Getting Started with Zoom

In this hands-on session, participants will learn the basics of Zoom, Butler's new video conferencing platform. Zoom makes it easy to connect people in real-time, online. Zoom's polling, screen sharing, breakout rooms and recording capability make it ideal for academic application. Butler's Zoom license will allow everyone at Butler, including students, to create and host their own Zoom meetings. Participants will learn how to use Zoom to support instruction, connect learners and build community online. Participants are encouraged to bring internet connected devices such as laptops, mobile phones, tablets, etc.
