All Butler employees have an important role to play in creating an environment that ensures everyone is able to fully participate in and benefit from the opportunities available at Butler University, regardless of their sex or gender.

Most University employees, including student employees, also have an obligation to report to the University when they are made aware of an incident of sexual misconduct. If a responsible employee receives information about an incident of sexual misconduct, they must report the incident to the University as soon as possible.

Under Title IX, responsible employees include those who:

- Have the authority to take action or redress sexual misconduct
- Have a duty to report sexual misconduct to appropriate school officials, or
- A student could reasonably believe has this authority or duty

Responsible employees at Butler include:

- Those who offer course instruction, whether in person or online, including full-time and part-time faculty, adjuncts, and Teaching Assistants
- Advisors
- Coaches and athletics staff who interact with students
- Student Affairs staff members, except those in Counseling and Consultation Services and Health Services and the Sexual Assault Response and Prevention Specialist (SARPS)
- Residence Life staff members, including Resident Assistants
- Those who work in offices or areas that interface with students
